

Valerie Francis

As a veteran of the business world, Valerie Francis has followed a diverse path to her position as Senior Training Consultant with Rockhurst University Continuing Education Center. Over the years, she's consulted with and expertly provided the perfect training solutions for thousands of professionals in public agencies and private-sector companies.

Formerly, Valerie was a manager with the leading private service provider of homeland security, border control, courts, and corrections. Additionally, she has held increasingly more responsible positions in communications, site security, customer service, and administration.

Valerie consults with individuals – like you – who want to take their skills to the next level. Who want to be excellent and exceptional. Who want to communicate better ... build relationships ... and do the best job possible every day.

You'll find Valerie is positive, professional, and easy to talk to. She'll listen to your challenges, determine your learning style, and help you explore our many training options – so you can meet any situation head-on and shine!
